Northern Sections Hit by Snowfall

Elsewhere Freezing Rain, Snow Flurries Make Roads Slippery

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—From four to 10 inches of snow blanketed northern New York today.

Plows and sanding crews were in action.

Elsewhere in the state, freezing rain and snow flurries were making highways slippery.

Temperatures dropped after midnight into the 30s and 40s overnight. They were expected to be in the lower 20s or below by tomorrow.

St. Lawrence county reported from four to 10 inches of slushy snow.

Canton county had six inches, and Franklin, Lewis and Jefferson counties, from four to six inches.

At many roads in western New York were reported open but icy.

State police advised against unnecessary travel. About an inch of snow fell in the Rochester area yesterday, but melted after an overnight temperature increase to 30 degrees.

Syracuse's 45-degree temperature was expected to dip to 23 tonight, causing rain there to turn to snow flurries.

The New York city area, where a light rain was falling, expected colder weather tomorrow also. The mid-morning temperature was 48 degrees.

The weather bureau said a low pressure center crossing the state from the west would bring snow to eastern New York late today.

Census Figures Given

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—The United States population was 149,447,000 on October 1, the Census Bureau reported today. It is estimated to have passed 150,000,000 since then. That figure, which includes 487,000 in the armed forces overseas, represented a 244,000 gain during September and a rise of nearly 1,000,000 for the first 10 months of this year.

Takes Turn for Worse

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—Bill Robinson, 71-year-old Negro dancer, has taken a turn for the worse, his physicians reported today. Robinson has been in Parkland Division of the Cook County-Presbyterian Medical Center since November 14 suffering from a heart ailment. He is now in an oxygen tent.

Four Sentenced

Romanians Face Death on Spying Charges
12 Get Terms

Bucharest, Romania, Nov. 25 (AP)—Four Romanians, one of them reportedly a member of the army's general staff, have been sentenced to death on charges of spying for the United States.

Twelve others were given prison terms, ranging up to life by a military court. An official announcement last night said the men were tried last week. It described them as a "gang of traitors and agents of American espionage services."

Sentenced to death were Lt. Col. Dan Todoran, said by well-informed sources to have been serving on the Romanian Army general staff when arrested; Maj. Nicolai E. Elade, a reserve officer; Nicolai E. Elade, an actor; and Ion V. V. a civilian sentenced in absentia.

Toll Is One of Highest in Several Years; Traffic Fatalities Exceed '48

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's death toll in violent accidents over the Thanksgiving Day holiday was one of the highest in several years.

There were at least 161 violent deaths from 6 p. m. (local time) Wednesday to midnight Thursday. These included 103 traffic fatalities.

Fifty-eight persons died in miscellaneous accidents, including fires, plane crashes, shootings, falls and hunting. Also included were 14 persons killed in Alabama tornadoes.

This year's Thanksgiving violent deaths compared to 134 over the same period last year; 128 in 1947, and 83 in 1946. The totals on Thanksgiving Day holidays during the war years also were below this year's mark.

Thanksgiving Day traffic deaths far exceeded last year's toll of 80. The National Safety Council's record show an average of 82 persons killed every 24 hours in traffic accidents during the first nine months of 1949.

However, the figures for the nine months ending deaths occurring as long as months after the accident in which the victims were injured.

Among the violent deaths were a 19-year-old mother and her three young children who perished in a fire that destroyed their log cabin near Rockville, Ind., in Elkhart, N. J., a father died in attempting to aid his eight children when fire broke out in their home, California, Illinois and Ohio each reported 10 traffic deaths.

Silvia Gould Weds Naval Officer in Roxbury Rites

Roxbury, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—Heiress Silvia Gould, who broke her engagement to Lt. Commander Ernest Hoefler, Jr. on the eve of their wedding scheduled for last Sept. 24, was married to the handsome naval officer last night.

Justice of the Peace James Hopkins performed the surprise ceremony.

The simple ceremony was arranged on short notice at Furlough Lodge, Sanger, N. Y., home of the 31-year-old heiress to part of the fortune of her great grandfather, financier Jay Gould.

The bride said last Sept. 23 that she canceled her engagement to the 29-year-old naval officer because he refused to sign away dower rights to her estate.

Newspapers had said the wedding was called off because of Hoefler's refusal to give up his navy career and become a business man in New York city.

The reports were called "entirely erroneous" by the twice-married Mrs. Gould, "I had every intention of living with him on any assignment he had," she said.

"He refused to sign a pre-nuptial dower rights agreement, relinquishing those rights in my estate," she said. "And my children must be protected."

Reached by telephone at the bride's Sanger estate after the wedding last night, Hoefler refused to comment on how their differences had been reconciled. Neither would he talk about their plans.

Asked if he would continue his career, he said, "Well, I'm still in the navy."

Woman, 19, Loses Leg in Accident, 4 Others Are Hurt

Pennsylvania Resident Also Is in Serious Condition; Were Changing Tire

Five persons were injured, two of them seriously while they were grouped around a disabled automobile parked along Route 9W four miles south of Saugerties Wednesday night, state police reported.

The four young women and a young man who were injured were with two other persons assisting in changing a flat tire on the car in which they had been riding when another vehicle skidded into the group, troopers said.

Two of the group received serious injuries about the legs. Troopers said they were Patricia Smith, 19, of Mechanicsville, Pa., and Sylvia Heberling, 19, of Newark, N. J. A leg amputation was necessary in the case of Mrs. Heberling, state police said. Both are in Kingston Hospital, where Dr. Louis N. J. and Margaret Sharpe, 19, of Maplewood, N. J., troopers said. All reported receiving consultations and lacerations to their legs.

Driver of the automobile in which they were riding and which at the time of the accident was parked on the shoulder of the road was Larry Kravitz, 20, also of Newark, who reported he was not injured, troopers said. One other person, not identified, was riding with the group and was also uninjured.

The accident occurred about 8:45 p. m. when another automobile, driven by Stanley Albert, 26, of Star Route, Hagsman, traveling south on Route 9W came upon the parked automobile and skidded to avoid hitting it, troopers said. Albert applied the brakes and his automobile skidded on the wet pavement and struck the five persons and the parked vehicle, state police said.

With Albert was his wife, Mildred Albert, troopers said. They were not injured, according to the report.

The injured were conveyed to Kingston Hospital in a Conner's ambulance. The two seriously injured women were admitted while the others were discharged after treatment.

No arrests were made, state police said.

Strike Looms on 76 Bus, Trolley Routes

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—A possible strike loomed today on the 76 bus and trolley routes of the Third Avenue Transit System which carries 1,800,000 daily passengers in Manhattan, the Bronx and lower Westchester county.

The final decision rested on a survey today of an alleged slowdown by some drivers on five bus routes in the Bronx.

The survey was planned by James Hodes, one of the three trustees managing the privately-owned system, which is in Federal Court reorganization.

The company contends a dozen drivers have been participating in a slowdown for two weeks.

Michael J. Gull, president of the C.I.O. Transport Workers Union, says the company's 3,000 workers will be called out on strike if any driver is suspended for the alleged slowdown.

Hodes said last night "I would take any action which I have made a personal survey of what is going on. If I am convinced that the slowdown is continuing, I definitely will take some kind of action."

14 Persons Are Killed In Tornado

Injuries Hit 44 Others and Several Missing in Three Counties in Alabama

Red Cross Steps In

Disaster Crew Assists Those in Stricken Area

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 25 (AP)—Thanksgiving Day tornadoes roared down at four points in east Alabama yesterday and killed 14 persons. Forty-four persons were injured.

The vicious, out-of-season storms left several other persons missing and destroyed more than a score of buildings as they leap-frogged in three counties about dusk.

An entire family of 10 negroes was wiped out near Hackneyville in Tallapoosa county, 60 miles southeast of Birmingham. The mammoth wind picked up their weatherbeaten little home and hurled it 300 yards across the road into another house.

The second house was occupied by another large family of negroes, but none was reported hurt. Both houses were destroyed.

Witnesses said they appeared to explode after the smashing impact.

Near Oneonta, in Blount county, two members of a white family were killed at the Basley community. The same twister hopped a small mountain and struck again on the northern outskirts of Oneonta, where 34 persons were hurt. Property damage was heavy.

Another person was killed and five injured by the tornado's fury on Sand Mountain, near Valley Head in DeKalb county. Valley Head is 90 miles northeast of Oneonta.

Sheriff W. F. Maynor of Blount county reported that an unidentified body was taken from the ruins of a burned home near Oneonta.

G.O.P. Takes Blast At U. S. Diplomacy

Claim Ward Case Bungled; Democrats Say Praise Should Be Given

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—A Republican blast at the State Department's handling of the Angus Ward case brought from two Democrats today a reply that the department should be praised rather than criticized.

Ross, Price (D-Ill.) and Mansfield (D-Mont.) told reporters the important thing was that the department had got Ward, the U. S. consul general at Mukden, released from a Chinese Communist jail.

Education Plans to Affect Future of New Paltz College

Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of State Teachers College, New Paltz, outlined some of the plans for higher education in New York state and recent developments at the New Paltz College before the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs on Wednesday at the Hotel Shuylow.

Dr. Haggerty was introduced by Rotary President Charles Bach.

Excerpts from his talk follow: "The State University of New York through committees of its Board of Trustees and through members of its administrative staff is in the process of making many plans for higher education in New York state, some of which would vitally affect the future of the State Teachers College at New Paltz. The Board of Trustees is charged by law with developing a master plan for higher education for the youth of New York."

In making this master plan the trustees are authorized to make provision not only for new institutions of various kinds that are needed in the state, but also for the expansion and assignment of new functions to existing institutions. The college at New Paltz, which became a part of the State University last April 1, will fit into this master plan in some way, and it is the duty of the trustees to place the college in the plan.

Most of the other ratios were changed slightly. Kingston retains its 90 per cent. The table was offered for adoption and went over until this evening for a vote.

Following are the ratios as proposed for 1950 and the ratios which were in effect this year:

The resolution for adoption of the table went over under the rule and will be called up this evening for action.

A communication was received and read from the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D.D., president of the Ulster County Board of Health, thanking the board for reappointment to a six year term and accepting the designation.

Dr. Robert H. Broad, county commissioner of health made his annual report to the board which was received and filed. The report reviewed the work of the health department during the past year.

Dr. George Weber, superintendent of the Tuberculosis Hospital, also submitted his annual report which showed that the hospital had given 19,570 days care and had operated at an average of 98 per cent of capacity during the past year. The average number of patients per day was 54. The cost of operation was $15,771.05, an average cost per day per patient of $7.70. There remains a balance of $25,769 in the hospital fund, which is estimated will be sufficient to carry on the work of the hospital until the close of this year. A budget for 1950 was submitted which places the cost of operation at $14,000 less than the past year (Continued on Page 11, Col. 5)

Top Executive Is Sought for A.E.C.

French Unions Call 24-Hour Halt For Higher Wages

Socialist Thomas Labels Attempt 'Fiasco,' Says Thousands Stay on Jobs

Paris, Nov. 25 (AP)—France's two biggest labor unions called for a 24-hour general strike today but the demonstration for higher wages failed to shut down French economic life.

Transportation was disrupted. Mines and most big industries were closed.

But reports from throughout the country showed that large groups of workers insisted on staying on the job. Hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen walked or rode bicycles in a determined effort to get to work.

Effects of the strike on normal life were not very noticeable.

Socialist Cabinet Minister Eugene Thomas, who heads the post office, called the strike a "fiasco."

A report from Lille said that in the heavily industrial north the strike was 30 per cent effective among chemical factory workers, 70 per cent among textile workers, 80 per cent among metal workers and 10 per cent among workers at the Lille railroad station.

The only incident reported so far was from Bordeaux where 300 strikers prevented the departure of a train to Spain.

The ports of Cherbourg and Dunkerque, where the Communist Union is very strong, were almost completely idle.

At Marseilles, two cargo ships sailed out of port, although the dockers were in a total strike. Ships also entered the harbor with no trouble. Dockers refused to unload cargo, but left passengers get off.

Planes for Rome, Tunis, Algiers and New York were cancelled. But the airlines said planes would fly on schedule to Dakar, Madagascar, Cairo, Casablanca, Madrid, Barcelona and London. Though domestic train service was almost entirely suspended, the Gare Du Nord said international trains carrying passengers bound for Britain, Belgium and Copenhagen would run on time.

Spot interviews with Parisians on the streets revealed almost unanimous opposition to the strike and determination not to lose a day's pay. Liberal and conservative newspapers had denounced the work stoppages, expected to cost France 10,700,000,000 francs (about $30,000,000).

Interior Ministry sources in Paris said 40 per cent of the railroad workers' and six per cent of the city's water department workers were on strike. The ministry hoped to have several Paris subway lines operating later in the day.

Two deputies termed the strike a failure and claimed it showed the weakness of the unions' hold on their followers.

Jean Moreau, independent, said the "failure proves once more that the workers are more reasonable than their labor bosses."

Andre Collin, Catholic Republican Movement (M.R.P.) said "The strike shows that the labor leaders don't have the hold on their followers that they thought they had."

France's two biggest labor unions—one anti-Communist, the other Red dominated—agreed to call the one-day demonstration strike. They want to pressure the government to give pay bonuses and end wage freezes.

But the response to the strike call, effective at midnight last night, was disappointing. (Continued on Page 11, Col. 1)

Leader's Successor to Be Selected by President in Near Future

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—President Truman, reportedly still seeking a successor to David E. Lilienthal as the nation's atomic chief, was urged by lawmakers to choose no one but a top-notch executive.

A high official of the Atomic Energy Commission said he understood that Mr. Truman had not yet picked a new A.E.C. chairman to replace Lilienthal, whose resignation was announced Wednesday.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) and Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.), both members of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, called on the President to exercise careful judgment in making the choice for one of the most important jobs in the world.

Johnson has been highly critical of many of Lilienthal's policies in the past. Kilday has been a strong defender of the controversial atomic official.

In accepting Lilienthal's resignation with "reluctance and the utmost regret," Mr. Truman expressed confidence that his atomic lieutenant would stay on if really needed beyond the December 31 date on which he now plans to quit.

Despite this indication that the President might not be in a hurry to find a successor, there was speculation that Mr. Truman may act swiftly in order to give the new man plenty of time to familiarize himself with the complex and secrecy-cloaked operation before Lilienthal steps out.

Johnson coupled his call for a top executive for the $17,500-a-year job with a barbed, indirect thrust at Lilienthal—a public notice of less secrecy in the atomic operation.

"I hope the President fills this long anticipated vacancy with a hard driving executive who will be more interested in pushing the development of atomic energy than in propaganda," Johnson told a reporter.

Kilday sounded a vastly different note in a separate interview. "I do hope that the President (Continued on Page 10, Col. 8)

Cadets' Rally Is Cause for Alarm

'Beat Navy' Jamboree at West Point Rattles Windows in Area

Newburgh, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—West Point Cadets threw a noisy "Beat Navy" rally last night—so noisy it gave thousands of residents of this city an acute case of war jitters.

Sleepy-eyed citizens bounced out of bed at 11 p. m. (E.S.T.) when the cadets at the U. S. Military Academy 13 miles away unleashed with anti-aircraft guns during the height of a pre-game football rally.

They saw searchlights probing the sky above the academy and heard the drone of a plane overhead.

Thousands of calls poured into police and newspaper office switchboards, asking if an air raid was on. Many residents complained that their windows rattled and doors trembled under the blast of the explosions. They said the explosions could be felt and heard over a 15-mile radius.

Extra telephone operators were pressed into service to handle the flood of calls from bewildered and frightened persons. The calls continued to pour in early today.

At the academy, an officer who asked that his name not be used, said that the rally was no different or noisier than those held in other years before the annual Army-Navy games. The teams meet in Philadelphia tomorrow.

He suggested that low-hanging clouds and a brisk wind might have made the explosions seem more intense here than in other years.

Meanwhile, Rep. Katharine St. George (R-N.Y.) said at her home in Tuxedo, that she had received a number of calls indignantly protesting the rally.

The "bombardment" started at 11 o'clock and lasted about 10 minutes.

Strenuous Session Is Held at Bonn

Socialist Leader Is Barred From Next 20 Sessions for Insult to Adenauer

Debate Is Hot

Criticized Leader, Says He's Tool of Allies; Conservatives Object

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 25 (AP)—West Germany's parliament today approved the new Allied-German agreement relating occupation controls.

But opposition during the tumultuous, all night session was so bitter that Socialist leader Kurt Schumacher was barred from the assembly's next 20 sessions for insulting Chancellor (Premier) Konrad Adenauer.

"Chancellor of the Allies" was the name hurled by Schumacher at Adenauer that brought the opposition leader's suspension. It came after the Socialist bitterly objected to west Germany's promise to participate in the international control authority for Germany's rich industrial Ruhr, which the Germans previously have boycotted.

In return the Allies ended disarming in at least 18 German steel, rubber and chemical plants. They also agreed to German consular and commercial relations abroad, rebuilding of a limited German merchant marine for foreign trade and Allied sponsorship of German membership in international organizations.

While Socialist deputies were out of the chamber in caucus, the rest of the assembly overwhelmingly rejected Schumacher's proposal on which the opposition made its fight against the agreement.

It was a motion challenging Adenauer's conduct of the right to negotiate and sign the agreement with the Allies without parliamentary approval.

In the hot debate which preceded the vote, Schumacher criticized the chancellor for agreeing to recognize the international authority to control the industrial Ruhr. In his "chancellor of the allies" taunt, Conservative deputies replied with shouts of "providence," "catastrophe" and "boycott."

They banged their desks, some rushed for the rostrum to grab the microphone. Deputies leaped to their feet, shouted and screamed.

When order was restored, the session recessed for the Council of Elders to confer action against Schumacher.

The opposition leader told a news conference later his exclusion "strongly endangers further collaboration in this house."

He said the Socialist (S.P.D.) party has not yet decided "how it will react, but it will react."

To Oppose Plan

Brannan Farm Program Draws Opposition of National Grange

Sacramento, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Grange Agricultural Committee was ready today to submit to the National Grange convention here a resolution opposing the Brannan farm price support program.

National Master Albert S. Goss said he was confident Grange representatives from 37 states in the final day of the convention would support the committee's stand.

Goss won reelection Monday on a platform based on opposition to the Brannan Plan. His chief opposition for reelection was State Master Joseph W. Fichter, Oxford, who favors the proposal.

The committee's resolution said the subsidy plan was only a

Tapioca for Hopalong
Hollywood, Nov. 25 (AP)—Hopalong Cassidy usually handles the onerous of variations with ease. But two boys with slingshots—that's different. The screen and television star (real name Bill Boyd) had to call on two policemen to round up two teen-agers before a parade last night. They were peppering Hoppy's horse with tapioca pellets from atop an ice cream shop. "It made the horse awfully nervous," the officers reported, "and Hopalong awfully mad."

For centuries the tomato was considered poisonous.

Girl, 12, Is Found Alongside Body Of Her Sister, 11

Philadelphia, Nov. 25 (AP)—A 12-year-old girl in a state of near exhaustion was found Thanksgiving Day beside the dead body of her younger sister under a 100-foot high trestle.

The girls apparently had fallen from the railroad bridge. In a moment of consciousness the injured girl said her sister fell through the trestle, I heard her scream and ran to help her and I fell through too.

Their discovery by five boys playing on the bank of the ravine the trestle bridges ended an all-night search for the girls. They were last seen Wednesday afternoon after they were dismissed from school.

The dead girl was 11-year-old Elsie Jeanne Henry. Her sister is named Janie Betty. They were third and fourth grade pupils, daughters of James F. Henry of nearby Rutledge.

The Henrys reported the children missing at 7 p. m. Wednesday. By morning a widespread search for them had developed. Just before noon three sons of a prominent Chester lawyer, J. H. W. Henson, with two playmates, heard feeble moans from the ravine.

The boys scattered and ran for help. One summoned Henson's gardener, George Rinehart.

The banks of the gulch are so steep that ropes had to be used to help carry out Betty and her dead sister.

Betty is in a serious condition at Chester Hospital, Chester, suffering from shock, 17 hours of exposure, and internal bleeding. An examination showed no outward marks on her sister's body but indicated death may have been caused by bleeding into a lung.

Yale Professor Sees Trouble With Video

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—Television, says a Yale University professor, will make it "increasingly difficult for teachers to foster reading habits and for students at any age to maintain them."

Edward S. Noyes, a member of the English Department and chairman of the Board of Admissions at Yale, declared last night that television, radio, motion pictures and the phonograph "offer a growing threat to the amount and quality of reading done by Americans."

He spoke at the first general session of the 39th annual meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English.

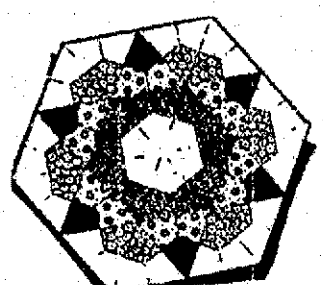

Earlier, the council's 150-member Board of Directors criticized what it termed the efforts of such groups as boards of education and legislative committees to "impose undemocratic principles in the selection of teaching materials," such as textbooks.

"We condemn such courses of action as constituting a dangerous obstruction of the free search for truth," the board said in a resolution.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE.

Long George and "The Inch" Down the street a place from my theatre there's an old-fashioned suds parlor called "Jerry's," and whenever I'm in the mood for a little stale air, I drop in and order a pannikin of ginger beer.

Last night when I walked in, half the customers were watching a wrestling match on the television between the Phantom and the Great Kabolski, and the others were listening to a matty argument between two of Jerry's regulars, George Smiley better known as Long George, and Sid Perry usually referred to as "The Inch."

"Money money," I heard "The Inch" say. "Take a squint at them wrestlers and see what guys will do for dough under this lousy system."

"What's wrong with money?" said Long George. "It may have its faults, but offhand can you think of a better idea? Even in Russia they got it—or an unbecomingly facsimile of the same." "Money," said "The Inch" picking his teeth and words carefully, "is the root of all evil. It makes scavengers of humans and con-men of angels."

"Wrong as per usual," said George. "The real scourge of mankind take my word for it, is power. Power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

And there won't be any peace on the face of this bilious green earth until there ain't a Napoleon left anywhere but in the bakeshop down the street."

At this point, somebody dropped a nickel in a juke box, and Frankie Laine began ee-yahing and cracking an imaginary whip at an imaginary team of mules.

"In Russia," "The Inch" went on, "a man is offered a better incentive than dough—prestige. He's willing to dig an extra five yards of ditch a day because he figures he'll get to be foreman. That way, the ditch gets dug and nobody gets swindled by some bloated capitalist."

"That way," said George, "he gets in a position where he can send another worker to Siberia for not digging five extra yards." "The Inch" looked at his empty glass. "Under Capitalism," he said, "a man goes hungry. He's a bottom dog. He can't even buy himself a glass of beer."

"Capitalism may be rough on some people's bellies," said Long George, "but by, laige, and in the round, it leaves their brains alone. A Rockefeller may be rich as Croesus—or even a Rockefeller—but he can't tell you what papers to read, or what church to go to. He can't throw you in the clinic for sticking your tongue out at him and, what's more to the point, he can't order you to be bumped off. But where might is boss instead of mazuma, the big boys control the newspaper, and when they get into a jam they start liquidating people instead of assets. Nope, if a fellow's out after money, I can keep an eye on him and stash my dough away in my shoe. But if he's after power, it means he wants power over me, and the only sensible thing for me to do is to knock him down before he knocks me down."

"The trouble with the pecuniary motive," said "The Inch," "is that it drives a man to drink—and under capitalism, he can't pay for it."

"Under communism, he may be too dead to drink it," said Long George. "Those little holes in the walls behind Russian police stations weren't made by woodpeckers, you know."

Jerry leaned over the bar and addressed himself in a loud voice to the two tap-room Talmudists. "Fourteen beers," he said. "That'll be a dollar-forty, and you're lucky I don't give you a bill for the three pounds of herzing and rye bread you put away at the lunch counter."

"See what I mean?" said "The Inch." "The heves-terrorize the havenots. A man's got no dignity."

"In Russia," said Long George, "if you couldn't pay this guy for your beer, like as not they'd shoot you first and call you a Titoist." "Afterwards," here, all Jerry can do is to ask you out for the dollar-forty and ask you to leave his joint."

The suds-side philosophers got off their stools, and with Socratic staidness sauntered out of the place.

"Pay you tomorrow," "The Inch" called back from the door, "soon's I get my unemployment insurance check cashed."

Jerry sighed. "Two nights a week I got to put up with those two," he said.

"George and 'The Inch'?" I asked.

"Now," said the bartender, "Kabolski and the Phantom. Every Monday the Phantom beats Kabolski, and every Thursday Kabolski beats the Phantom. They ought to vary it now and then."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Nov. 23—There is a superstition in our business that all reporters, copyreaders and assistant city editors are fixing to go into the egg-business when they get old. I can't exactly remember a specific case of any ink-stained wretch who did, but I suppose it happens regularly because it isn't a dramatic event but more on the insidious side. But the egg business is the worst destroyer of them all next to the restaurant and saloon business.

In my years up in the far suburbs, I saw many a one go in for eggs, but never a one stand off the feed bills to say nothing of time, equipment, buildings, investment and hard labor. Some of those poor suckers could have been newspaper people, who are, by reputation, the sorriest clumps on earth in matters of investment and finance. But they could have been bankers, too, with a nostalgia for the scenes, scents and sounds of their childhood way back where they came from. Or advertising tycoons.

Just from where you sit, you would think it would take a genius, like Elliott Roosevelt, to lose money in eggs. What does eggs amount to, after all? Just a lot of biddies chasing June-bugs and hopper-grasses, scratching up gravel and fishworms and eating up weed-seed and grass and going out-cut-cut-cut and running under the coin-cub when that old mister chandler stands up on tip-toe, flaps his wings and gets that gleam in his eye. You can buy them from the mail-order house or the hay-grain and feed store for a dime apiece, assorted, and after you baby them along a few weeks you have got pretty realistic springers legging around the yard. Count off the loss from weaklings who turn up cold in death when you count up in the morning and you are still out in front when you figure that 90 per cent of them prove up and the dead ones were only a dime each.

But that isn't the way it goes in real life. I can show you a dozen abandoned, weed-grown egg ranches up around where I was taking about, with big barns two stories high and little coops like Henry Wallace's corrugated granaries, standing in melancholy rows with bundock and stuff up to the eaves. And I am just giving the testimony of a casual naked eye, not statistics from the farm bureau or the department of agriculture.

I knew a man who used to have butlers with striped vests and a monogram on their buttons who got caught short in the reach about the time of the panic of '28 and decided to raise eggs. He still had enough to buy a quaint little old farmhouse and some away-back barns and some acres away from it all and, with the retail price of eggs as a basis, by simple arithmetic he reckoned himself back into the chips in a couple of years.

But all he knew about eggs was that he liked them sometimes like retired fighters who think they are authorities on the restaurant and liquor business because they like T-bones and Old Stopwatch on the rocks. Like the time on Lipton's boat when Gene Fowler told Lord Dewar, the whiskey magnate from Edinburgh, "I am a big whiskey man, myself, you know, or can I just call you Lord?"

Bewar said, "eh, oh wolto, wot savit of whiskey?"

Gene said, "oh, all kinds, bourbon, rye Scotch. Gin, beer, wine."

"But you don't make Scots whiskey in Ameriker," Dewar said.

"Oh Lord no, Lord," Gene said. "I don't make it. I drink it."

This friend put in about 3,000 hens and the way the eggs came rolling down the production line, I thought he was getting just absolutely reeking rich. But I noticed he was always working. If he wasn't sitting there in a cold little stall candling eggs and sizing them and weighing them, he was chewing a pencil over the bills of shovelling out or mixing stuff to feed them. I learned that my impression of chickens scratching up their own living out of the good earth was fallacious even in summer. Did you ever know that you have to buy great big, pot-bellied sacks of feed for chickens?

Another friend started out with just a few yard-hens for eggs and liceases. The war was beginning to get rough and he thought he would produce some food so he built some houses and runs and all like that. But he didn't consider himself an egg magnate until he realized that he was on the nut for about $3,000 for buildings and stuff. Then he had to have a "man," as they say and "man" in this usage is a country slob who ought to wear a duval-bib like a St. Bernard and couldn't qualify for the rating of moon without a cram-course. He got a "man" for $20 a week at first, then $25, then $30 and then lost him altogether to the "wavy effort," which bid him in at $80.

I met the "man" at the grocery store one day.

"I never know they was so much money in the world," he said. My friend's wife is a stylish babe and she used to go around an egg-route in the family sedan, from Joe's Lunch to Dan's Diner, to the Gussy Spoon and the tea shoppe and the jims. She got stuck in the snow. She had to change tires in her milk coat. And, finally, when these guys really gave her the business on pucc, knowing she would be stuck with the eggs, she said to hell with those bums and gave the whole production to the hospital until they could sell off the flock as a salvage price.

The O.P.A. wouldn't let them charge enough to break even and the ration board said the request for more gas to haul feed and peddle eggs was a stall for joy-riding in winter, too with the glaze-ice and dills.

You wouldn't catch me ranching eggs when I get old. I am going to raise chinchillas and minks. A chinchilla coat sells for $50,000. Mink, $4,500 to $10,000. You have to use common sense planning your old age.

Will Take Stand Monday

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—A Communist agent Whittaker Chambers will return to the witness stand Monday for further cross-examination by the defense in the second Alger Hiss perjury trial. The trial is in recess for the Thanksgiving holidays. Before court adjourned Wednesday, the defense sought to lay the groundwork for psychiatric testimony regarding Chambers by questioning him about a 1926 suicide pact with his brother, Chambers has testified that Hiss, former high State Department official, fed him government secrets for a prewar Soviet spy ring. Hiss is charged with perjury in denying such activity.

What a whale of a difference when Oil does it all!

WHAT DO WE MEAN when we say that in Dynaflo Drive* "oil does it all"?

Simply that in Dynaflo Drive, the spinning of oil in the Dynaflo unit does what you have long needed shifting gears to accomplish. For instance—

Here you are starting out. In most cars, you have to throw out a clutch and shift into low gear to get starting power. In Dynaflo, you simply set your lever in Driving position—and nudge the gas treadle.

Oil spins in a sealed drum to give you all the power needed for starting—but there's no transmission gear-whine whatever.

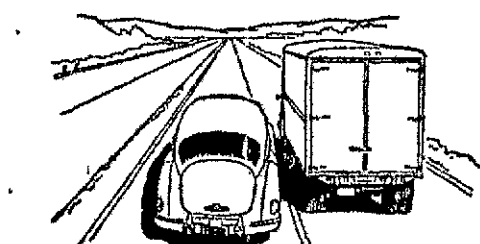

Now you are beginning to move. In most cars, you shift manually—into second, then third—each time repeating that press-the-pedal-move-the-lever routine.

With Dynaflo, oil simply spins in a different path within the Dynaflo unit and you move into cruising pace easy as a bird taking off.

*Standard in ROADMASTER, special of extra cost in SUPER and WILDLIFE models.

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them

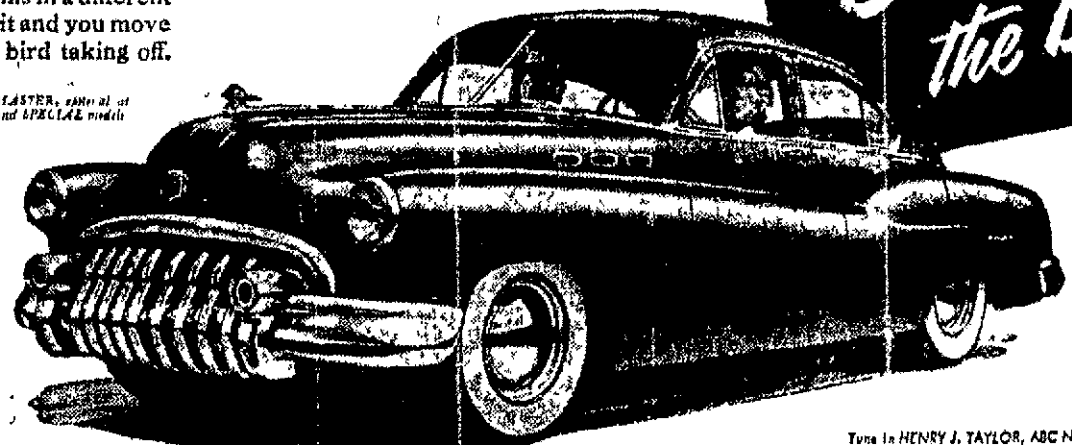

Here's a slow-moving vehicle you want to pass. In other cars you may have to shift again—with a definite loss of forward motion. That means a lag before you get action—and maybe another shift back into high after you have passed.

Not so with Dynaflo. Just step on the throttle, and spinning oil takes the path to give you extra power for passing. Response is as fast as engine response—practically instantaneous.

Here's a common traffic situation. Usually you go into second or low—in order to get a good fast getaway.

With Dynaflo, just press the gas treadle, never touching the shift lever. Spinning oil will find the proper channel of flow to give you getaway power—power that's ever-smooth—and great enough to step you out smartly and with unbroken, velvety smoothness.

BABSON on BUSINESS

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.—I am traveling about the country on my annual trip to look over the real estate situation. Briefly, these are my conclusions:

There will be less private building in 1950 than in 1949. The building of homes, business blocks and factories, through private funds and bank mortgages, will fall off about 10 per cent. The pressure for new homes has reached and passed its peak due to three reasons: (1) High building costs; (2) Fear of unemployment; and (3) Large number of divorces, with fewer marriages and births.

Government and other public building—however—should increase in 1950. This applies to school houses, hospitals, apartment houses and multiple government financed homes. I estimate this increase to be about 15 per cent. Therefore, there should be a net decline in all building of about 5 per cent because of the greater importance of private work, thus bringing the total for 1950 down to about $17,700,000,000.

The cost of building will be less in 1950 by about 5 per cent. Some building materials have gone down 15 per cent in some sections. Certainly, workmen are doing better work and are accomplishing more in a day. All of this means that landlords can get a better return and get it for a little less money in 1950.

I find no evidence of investors or other private parties building houses for rent in 1950. The rent control legislation and increasing taxes discourage conservative people from doing this. Besides, today a person can get a yield of from 5 per cent to 8 per cent on good stocks which I consider safer than any rental property. It also should be remembered that, disregarding state taxes, houses built for rental purposes are subject to two taxes: local real estate and federal income—while these good stocks are subject to only one tax, after being purchased by an individual.

Outlook for Land Prices
I learn that farm prices continue to be firm. Most farmers have good bank accounts and are selling no land. The general feeling is that farm values will hold until the next spring. This may come anytime, but the experts do not expect it until after 1952. The greatest demand for land appears to be for property in the Pacific Coast States and in the "Magic Circle" made up of Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Kansas and North Texas.

Small fertile sugarcane farms within a few miles of a small city are in most demand. These are being bought as insurance by people who have business positions in the nearby city. They want the best hedge against inflation war and Communism—namely, a small, fertile, well-drained farm with some wood and a good spring. Such small places continue to rise in price.

Suburban Property
I find property values in large cities are declining, especially when it comes to forced sales. High taxes and politics and labor unions are causing people to move to the suburbs. Hence, suburban property is holding firm. Property in small cities from 5,000 to 20,000 population. These small cities are showing both the largest percentage of growth and the best profits, per dollar invested, for small manufacturers and commercial enterprises. I would sell no property in such places, but rather buy more.

In closing, let me say that almost everyone I met on this trip now appears optimistic on adding land, well located for these reasons: (1) Large consumer income; (2) High level of personal savings; (3) Fear of inflation and desire to hold real property instead of cash; (4) Continued subsidies both to farmers and to labor; (5) Coming distribution of $2,800,000,000 insurance money to veterans; (6) Current low mortgage rates on very favorable terms; (7) Enhanced public housing program; and (8) Billions being spent in advertising to encourage both cash and installment purchases which increases the circulation of money and helps real estate values.

'The Saint'

Here is a saint—Howard St. John—and with whom will be six angels—Clint Finger, Julius Gilford, Bill Byrne, Cliff Buttrick, John Graves and Allen Baker. Also two children—Linda McPartland and Mary Jane Hasler. The Kiwanis Kapers of 1949, which will be presented Monday and Tuesday evenings, November 28 and 29 at the Kingston High School Auditorium, is he a saint? The answer will be forthcoming at the annual presentation of Kingston Kiwanis Club, the proceeds of which will go toward the youth welfare work.

So They Say...

Our conception of work and money is out of proportion. Work such as our fathers knew has become a thing of scorn and distaste. Teachers are the human engineers who can develop youth eager for work, ready to pursue hard citizenship and to keep energy on earth.

We have many relatively new elements of stability in our economy. Since the early 1930s we have secured through social, economic and financial reforms which have strengthened the capacity for the economy to resist shock.

County Judge Makes Fiscal Report to Supervisor Board

John M. Cashin, judge of the Children's Court of Ulster county has made his annual report to the Board of Supervisors for the year November 1, 1948 to November 1, 1949.

During the period covered by the report the court disposed of 198 formal cases and 13 informal cases. A formal case is one in which a petition is filed and the case scheduled for a hearing and determination by the court. An informal case is one that is adjusted without the filing of a petition.

In the past year there has been an increase in the number of formal cases. Last year 35 formal delinquency cases were disposed of and this year there were 56, an increase of 21 cases. In all 13 delinquency cases were disposed of in informal proceedings, a decrease of 12 over last year. Neglect cases increased from nine last year to 32 cases this year. Physically handicapped cases increased by 18. As to adult cases, last year 37 were concluded and this year the number was 63, an increase of 26.

Most of the children adjudged to be delinquent were placed on probation to the chief probation officer. Two were committed to institutions. In the neglect cases, 17 of the children were adjudged to be neglected and were committed to the custody of the county commissioner of public welfare for placement. The other 15 cases were dismissed.

Adult cases were in the majority "support proceedings" in which petitions were filed by wives or other interested parties charging a husband or father with not providing adequate support for his wife and minor children. In these cases either the respondent was ordered to contribute or he agreed to do so voluntarily and the petition was dismissed. During the year it was necessary to commit to the county jail seven men who had failed to comply with the order of support.

Judge Cashin acknowledges with thanks the cooperation and assistance rendered the court by the children's workers of the County Department of Public Welfare, the probation officer, the Catholic Charities agency, the sheriff and his staff, state police, city police and the various police departments throughout the county for their aid.

Of the 135 children's cases there were 45 boys and 11 girls charged with delinquency, 18 boys and 13 girls involved in neglect cases and 26 boys and 21 girls in the physically handicapped cases.

Reasons for referring delinquency cases to the court were as follows:

Burglary or unlawful entry, 22 boys. Other stealing, 12 boys and three girls. Truancy, two girls. Acts of carelessness or mischief, six boys and two girls. Sex offense, two boys and three girls. Running away one girl. Receiving stolen property one boy. Ungovernable two boys.

Of the 63 adult cases 32 men were ordered to pay toward maintenance of their families and in 31 cases the petition was dismissed or withdrawn. Fifty-one of the adult cases were for inadequate support of dependents and there was one contempt case. The report was received and filed.

Probation Officer Gives Annual Report to Judge

Edmund U. Burhans, chief probation officer of the County and Children's Courts of Ulster county has made his annual report to County Judge John M. Cashin who in turn has filed a copy of the report with the Board of Supervisors. The report was presented to the board at a recent meeting.

Again Mr. Burhans calls attention to the need of a private office where privacy may be maintained during interviews with persons on probation. At present the office of the probation officer is located in the public office of the county judge where frequently several persons are awaiting an audience with the court. During intake service and case work interviews it is impossible to have any degree of privacy and Mr. Burhans again requests office facilities for that work.

From November 1, 1948 until October 31, 1949, the period covered by his report, the amount of monies collected through the probation department continued to increase. In 1948 the amount collected was $32,911.23 while during the past year the amount was $37,723.37, an increase of $4,812.14.

Restitution consisted of payments in the sum of $384.35; payments by parents of physically handicapped children amounted to $657.12 and for family support $36,681.90 was collected. Had not this large sum been collected for family support, many of those who received this money would have been given public assistance. The payments are in many cases from working parents toward family support of those who are living separately.

In county court the case load remained the same at last year, 8 cases. The probation case load increased during the year from 72 in 1948 to 80 in 1949.

During the year probation was revoked for one male adult, and he was committed to jail for another offense.

The adult probation case load consisted of 28 males for misdemeanors and 9 male cases for felonies. There was one male transferred to the jurisdiction of Ulster county from other courts for a felony. During the year 22 passed from probation and six cases were transferred to other courts.

The probation cases received during the year, all males, were as follows:

Assault, third degree, 2. Petit larceny, 4. Unlawful entry, 2. Disorderly conduct, 1. Violations of traffic or motor vehicle law, 3. Sex offenses, 11. Other causes, 3. In the felony group there were 3 for assault and rape, 1 for forgery, 4 for grand larceny and 1 for offenses.

In children's court, pre-hearing reports were submitted to the court on 50 formal proceedings. The supervision case load increased from 37 in 1948 to 39 in 1949 but one case passed from supervision, leaving 38 cases under supervision. Seven of these are children and 31 adults.

The probation case load continued from 1948 was 62 cases and 38 were received during 1949, one of them on transfer, making a total of 100 cases. Passed from probation was 27 and one case transferred to other courts, leaving on probation 72 at the time of making the report.

Burglary and unlawful entry topped the list of reasons for children being placed on probation. There were 16 of this type cases. Other stealing numbered eight cases. There was only one case of truancy. Sex offenses involved four cases and acts of carelessness or mischief numbered four. There were 30 boys involved and four girls.

In six of the cases where probation passed the length of time had been three years and over. There were eight cases which passed from probation where the period of probation had been over two years, 12 of over a year and one case of over six months and less than a year.

In his report Mr. Burhans pays tribute to the "intelligent assistance of the sheriff and his staff, city and state police departments, the Ulster County Department of Public Welfare, the clergy of all faiths, Catholic, Protestant, city and county school officials and the Division of Probation of the State Department of Correction" for the success of the Ulster county probation.

Veterans' Service Office Has 12,735 Cases in Past Year

Howard C. Shurter, director of the Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency, has made his annual report to the Board of Supervisors showing that the agency handled 12,735 cases during the past year involving various veteran problems.

For its work the agency has been commended by the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs.

At a total cost to the county of $12,425, there has been brought into the county through pensions, accrued pay, burial allowances, insurance benefits, bonus money and subsistence allowance a total of $310,415.09. During the year the agency handled, among other matters, the reinstatement and conversion of $1,463,000 in National Service Life Insurance.

In the annual report which was submitted to the Board of Supervisors and which was received and read, Mr. Shurter makes the following report of activities.

In a previous report, it was stated that the needs of veterans, their families and dependents were the responsibility of the home community as well as the nation. This has definitely been proven again this year. When consideration is given to the fact that our agency handled 12,735 cases during the past year, it can be readily seen that Ulster county continues to care for its veterans. It is with some pride that we note that our agency has been commended by the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs, with our total services of 21,107 indicating a complete service.

"The New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs has been of excellent assistance again this year. The two state veteran counselors connected with our office have added greatly to our better service. The area office in Albany, under which territory our agency operates, continues to be of enormous help with their advice and counsel and the in-the-field training, offered by the state senior counselor, is most helpful in keeping abreast of new laws and procedures.

"We are grateful to acknowledge the cooperation of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Marine Corps League, Disabled American Veterans, the Red Cross, the Welfare Department, the sheriff's office, the county clerk's office and the various law enforcement departments. Their understanding and assistance have made possible our better service.

Following is a detailed report on organization, expenses, services rendered and monies brought in to the county.

Administrative Organization: Main office, 32 Main street, Bantam, N. Y. Branch offices, Ellenville, Saugerties, Highland and Kerhonkson.

Personnel: Director, 3 veterans advisors, 1 stenographer, 1 typist, * 2 New York state veteran counselors, * 1 New York state secretary to counselors.

Subsistence allowance (estimated) 150,120.00

$310,415.09

During the year the agency handled the reinstatement and conversion of $1,463,000 in National Service Life Insurance. It is to be noted that the above figures are for a 12 month period only. However, most of the benefits, once obtained, continue each year. Consequently, added to previous years' figures the amount would be an amazing sum which comes to county residents annually.

"The director and the agency staff are grateful to your honorable body for your ever present support, without which our attainments could not have been accomplished. Respectfully,
HOWARD C. SHURTER,
Director

Small Fire Damage In Jerusalem Church

Jerusalem, Nov. 25 (AP)—A fire in the Christian-vestibled Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem's old city died down today after causing little damage.

The reassuring report was brought by foreign diplomats who visited the fire scene. They said on their return through Arab lines that the blaze only partly damaged the leaden main dome and cupola, and a layer of felt and tar underneath the dome.

The flames, they added, did not damage the reinforced concrete inner layer of the dome or heavy scaffolding inside the church supporting the rotunda itself.

Many Christians believe the church covers the spot where the sepulchre was located. The body of Christ was taken to the sepulchre after the crucifixion. Some authorities, however, question the authenticity of the site.

The fire broke out Wednesday night. Handicapped by lack of modern fire-fighting equipment, Arabs, Moslems and Christians joined in battling the flames. The fire department, however, managed to contain the blaze and all the treasures of the shrine to safety. They included sacred images and fixtures.

Hashemite-Jordan police said they had detained for questioning four men who had been working on the wooden image in the dome and making other building repairs at the time of the fire.

False Alarm Calls Out East Kingston Company

Answering what turned out to be just a false alarm, the East Kingston volunteer fire company found billows of smoke pouring from the oil kiln at Brigham Brothers brickyard, Thursday, but it was just the usual result of the procedure in brickmaking, Chief James Costello said.

A call was sent to the firehouse at 3:45 p. m., and the volunteers had to leave their Thanksgiving tables to respond. They were assured by the firehouse that there was no fire. Chief Costello toured the brickyard with him to make sure that there were no sparks flying that might endanger the sheds.

The chief added an investigation would be made to determine whether the alarm was a false one. The East Kingston volunteers are determined not to tolerate false alarms.

The alleged escape took place on June 27 last. Since that time Landon, who was originally sentenced for burglary, has been at Clinton State Prison and Mote, sentenced for assault, second degree, has been at Comstock. Both were returned to Ulster county by Sheriff Smith to face the indictment charging escape.

Small Willow Home Destroyed by Fire

A small, unoccupied home owned by Dr. Ernst Ginnux near Willow was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early today, the Woodstock Fire Department reported.

The fire was discovered after 1 a. m. by neighbors, the Enorhs, who drove in a jeep to Van Wagner's gasoline station in Willow and from there summoned the Woodstock fire.

The building was completely enveloped in flames on the arrival of firemen, who were unable to save the structure. The building had not been occupied for several years, it was reported from Van Wagner's service station this morning.

Says U. S. Industry Is Peace Instrument

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Shah of Iran left here today for Detroit after declaring that America's "fantastic industrial capacities and production" were instruments of peace.

He made the statement just before he boarded the "Sacred Cow," the DC-4 plane formerly used by President Truman. The Shah is on a month's tour of the United States.

"I never had any feeling that your industrial power was anything but a peace instrument," he said in reply to a newsmen's question on that point.

The Shah said he was enjoying his visit to the United States "much greater than all my expectations which were very great."

First Sled Mishap

The first coasting accident to be reported this season occurred at Phenicia Thursday morning. Edward Gormley, 7, son of Edward J. Gormley of Phenicia was admitted to Kingston Hospital with a cut on his head, hospital authorities reported. He is in "good condition" this morning, according to the hospital report. Young Gormley, attempting to sleigh ride on a light snow near his home, cut his head when his sleigh struck a stone, his family reported. He was treated by Dr. Charles A. Quinn at Phenicia, then was brought to Kingston Hospital for further treatment and X-ray examination.

VISITING U. S.—British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery had a wide smile as he arrived in New York aboard the Queen Mary for a two-week visit. The general sees no immediate threat of war in Europe. "If there were any, I wouldn't be here," he said.

Arkville Driver Fined After Car Hits Bus

A bus-automobile collision Wednesday afternoon at West Park resulted in the arrest of one man, state police reported. No injuries were reported and damage was slight, troopers said.

Mountain View Coach operated by Oscar Lambert, 29, of Esopus, traveling north on Route 9W stopped at West Park to discharge passengers about 4:10 p. m., troopers said. The following vehicle, operated by Lawrence Clausen, 46, of Arkville, swerved to the left but its right rear fender struck the left rear end of the bus, troopers reported.

Clausen was summoned to appear before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver on a charge that he was operating his vehicle at a dangerous speed. Clausen was fined $10 on the charge.

Small Willow Home Destroyed by Fire

A small, unoccupied home owned by Dr. Ernst Ginnux near Willow was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early today, the Woodstock Fire Department reported.

The fire was discovered after 1 a. m. by neighbors, the Enorhs, who drove in a jeep to Van Wagner's gasoline station in Willow and from there summoned the Woodstock fire.

The building was completely enveloped in flames on the arrival of firemen, who were unable to save the structure. The building had not been occupied for several years, it was reported from Van Wagner's service station this morning.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The stock market started a slow retreat today after a faint-hearted early attempt to get ahead.

A good many leaders managed to cling to small gains but the majority of price changes were on the minus side. A couple of groups made a better than average showing, notably rubber and liquor stocks.

Bristle trading developed for a short time after the opening but soon slowed to a more sedate pace.

Profit taking sales clipped numerous issues. Holiday influences were at work, too, with many traders extending the Thanksgiving Day recess into a long weekend.

Chrysler, which sold at a 1949 peak earlier this week lost around a point. Demand for this issue has been stimulated lately by hopes that directors will do something about a year-end dividend at a meeting scheduled for Dec. 1.

Also lower were Bethlehem Steel, Packard Studebaker, J. I. Case, Magnavox, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Phelps Dodge International Paper, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Southern Bell, Standard Oil (N. J.), Gulf Oil, Warner Bros. and Colgate.

U. S. Governments declined in the over-the-counter market for the fifth session in a row with losses running to around 5/32 of a point in the longer maturities. Corporate bonds moved narrowly, with the 20-year maturities of Louisiana Land, Niagara Hudson Power, Pancoast Oil, Imperial Oil, Cities Service, and American Maracahio Higher were Mining Corp. of Canada, United Light, Electric Bond & Share, Crooke Petroleum, and American Superpower Preferred.

Rush More Troops To Check Drive of Reds on Chungking

Chungking, Nov. 25 (AP)—Nationalist reinforcements were rushed to the front today to try to halt a three-prong drive on Chungking by an estimated 150,000 Communists.

Ninety-five thousand Reds were centered at Fowling 55 miles northeast on the Yangtze river, and Nanchuan, highway town 50 miles southeast. Thirty-five thousand were moving up from Kweichow province.

The Red troops were identified as belonging to Gen. Lan Ping, considered the Chinese Communist best general and Gen. Liu P. Cheng, who moved in from Kweichow.

Peking reports with authority that the Red drive has taken Chungking, a highway town 45 miles south of Chungking.

The long feared Red drive on Szechwan province from Shensi province had been halted by deep mists in the Chingling mountains.

The defense ministry announced that Szechwan had been divided into four defense zones under the overall command of Gen. Sun Yungling.

Gen. Hu Tsung-shan was appointed commander of the Szechwan-Shensi-Kansu border area. Gen. Sun then was named to command eastern Szechwan and Gen. Wang Lung-hsi southern Szechwan. Wang's command, a province of Szechwan Gen. Yang Sen, mayor of Chungking, was named commander of southern eastern Szechwan including Chungking.

The ministry announced that it made no mention of Gen. Song Hsi-lin, who commanded the Nationalists in Szechwan. It suggested he might have been relieved of his command for lack of resistance to the Reds in their invasion of Szechwan.

Despite official denials, thousands of people posted in the hills of Chungking will be turned to children before the Nationalists give it up. As a result they are moving out of the city in great numbers. Some are going alone, some by truck and many by train.

Formosa and Tibet, All of China Goal Of Reds by June

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—Chinese Communists plan to thrust their control over the island fortress of Formosa and over the mountain fastness of Tibet by next summer, an eastern European diplomat said today.

Their time-table also includes grabbing complete control of all China by that time, but does not include the British colony of Hong Kong, at least for the time being, the Communist diplomat said. He declined to say his name but information he has given in the past has proved reliable.

Red masters of Tibet, land of the world's highest mountains, ruled by Buddhist lamas, would bring the Communists to India's borders. It would give them control over the Indian commonwealth's northern trade routes through the states of Bhutan and Nepal.

Both expansion plans undoubtedly will meet fierce fighting in huge military operations.

The island of Formosa, stronghold of Chinese Nationalist Leader Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, is believed strongly defended against possible landing operations from the Chinese mainland.

Although Tibet has only 10,000 troops, it is a formidable, unimpaired terrain for the legions of Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung.

The diplomat, who represents a Communist country with direct relations in Red China, said Hong Kong was not the immediate target because the Communist Peiping government has no desire to start a shooting war with Britain over the island.

But it doesn't mean the Reds will accept eternally Britain's right to hold that strategic base off China's mainland, he added.

French Unions

French observers said today's strike was a pale imitation of pre-war general strikes, like those in 1919 and 1936.

"There were many troops patrolling the streets in those strikes," one Frenchman said. "In 1936 the workers occupied the factories and there was enormous tension. People stayed in their homes. Food shops were shut."

"But just look at the streets today. You see people walking, bicycling, hitchhiking and even finding an occasional taxi in their desire to get to work."

The city of Utica, N. Y., is a large textile center and manufactures about one-third of all U. S. knitted underwear.

G.O.P. Takes Blast

In full and the United States' political would be in a war if the department had followed a policy keyed to the thinking represented by the G.O.P. attack.

Five Republicans—all members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee—got out a statement yesterday accusing the department of a "spineless performance" in the Ward case. They demanded the immediate firing of officials "high and low" responsible for U. S. Chinese policy.

They were particularly critical of efforts to bring world pressure on the Communists to release Ward.

Referring to the Republican statement, Price said: "If this kind of warped thinking followed through, it would lead to hostilities and the possible loss of a million American lives."

Price is a member of the House Armed Services Committee.

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said "if the department had followed the policy outlined by the five Republicans it very likely would have meant war and it certainly would not have meant the release of Ward and others. The department acted wisely in contacting other nations and bringing about a real United Nations effort in this case."

The five Republicans called the whole incident "one of the most humiliating chapters in American diplomatic history." They said "the loss of face by the United States is beyond calculation."

families whose houses were damaged by the twister.

Gov. James E. Folsom called on National Guardsmen at Oneonta to aid in the search for the missing. Blood plasma, hospital supplies and nurses were sent to the Oneonta area by highway patrolmen.

Maynor said damage in Eastley was "widespread" and that many persons there were injured. Mrs. Gus Tidwell and her sister-in-law Miss Jennie Tidwell died in their storm-crushed home.

James McCullough, an Eastley resident, related that he was picked up by the wind and carried across three acres of land, finally landing in a tree top.

Evidence of the wind's might was shown when a school bus standing in front of Eugene Gibson's house was blown completely over the building, landing in the back yard.

Tornadoes are uncommon in Alabama at this time of the year. Most of them are spawned in the spring and fall. The weather bureau at Birmingham gave this explanation:

Strong southwesterly winds were blowing at all levels over the state. Aloft, the winds shifted to the northwest. This caused a trough, or "suction line," in which the death-dealing tornadoes were born.

Arranged Successful Ahavath Israel Ball

Herman G. Rafalowsky, general chairman, poses with three of his committee that helped arrange Ahavath Israel's 15th annual Thanksgiving Eve ball—Ben Schechter, Georges Kramer and Abraham Levy. Approximately 2,500 enjoyed the event at the municipal auditorium featuring Sammy Kaye's band and a stage show made up of stars from stage, radio and television. (Freeman Photo)

Capacity Crowd Attends Ball at City Auditorium

A capacity crowd flocked to the municipal auditorium Wednesday night to dance to the music of Sammy Kaye and his orchestra, and to witness the acts of entertainment at the 15th annual Ahavath Israel stage show and ball.

A count of tickets turned in at the door showed that there was a paid attendance of more than 2,500 persons. With a seating capacity of 1,856, this left almost 1,000 persons standing throughout the show. Members of the five department managed to keep exits clear, but every other available floor space was taken over by the standees.

Early comers gathered at the auditorium doors and, complaining of the cold, persuaded the officials to open the doors at 6:30 p. m., one-half hour ahead of the advertised time. By 7:45 almost every seat in the house was taken.

The scene reminded veteran ball-goers of the night of October 12, 1938, when Rudy Vallee was brought here by the Kingston Patrolmen's Association for its long-remembered ball under the chairmanship of William T. Reed.

That ball is generally conceded to be the best-attended ball since the state turned its old armory over to the city for use as a municipal auditorium.

The music of Sammy Kaye and his orchestra Wednesday night proved popular. The dance floor remained crowded until the last dance at 1 p. m.

The entertainment, sparked by Jan Murray as master of ceremonies, brought much applause from the packed house.

Murray, who Chairman Herman G. Rafalowsky said got up from a sick bed to appear here, kept the audience rollicking in laughter with his jokes and songs.

Most popular act, judging from the number of encores, was that of Valaida Snow, soloist, who rendered among other numbers "Chloe and Black Magic." On one encore she surprised the audience by borrowing a trumpet from one of the bandmen and playing it with professional touch.

Another act which was called back several times was the Lane Brothers, a novelty team whose topskipping act was well-received.

The Albins, with their "Nutmost in Dancing" routine and novelty singing by Cook and Brown were also well-received.

A scheduled specialty act by the Five Harstons, direct from the Palace Theatre, was unable to appear. Rafalowsky reported that the act was on its way here when its automobile and trailer caught fire just across the New Jersey state line. Much of the act's equipment was lost in the fire. Rafalowsky was informed by telephone at about 8:30 the night of the entertainment.

The entertainment and music was provided by the WOR entertainment bureau, of which Nat M. Abramson is manager. Abramson was present and spoke briefly to those attending the ball.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, opening the ball, paid tribute to Congregation Ahavath Israel for the high quality of its annual productions. "Proceeds go to a non-sectarian charity," the mayor pointed out.

Herman Rafalowsky, congregation president and ball chairman, made a brief, welcoming address in which he expressed his appreciation to Sammy Kaye for his appearance, terming Kaye's band as "the finest in the land."

The half-hour concert by the famous dance band brought applause from the entire house.

Don Cornell, vocalist with the band, was called back many times for his excellent renditions, including the newly popular "Mule Train." Cornell is a young man well-known in this area for his appearances here during World War 2, when he was stationed at Stewart Field, Newburgh.

Other popular vocalists with the band were Laura Leslie and Tony Almo, Eddie "Cecil" Rudisill, the Daffy Drummer, Chubby Silvers, Lloyd Roberts and the Kaydets were also featured.

Almost everyone remained after the close of the regular entertainment to witness the specialty which has become a Sammy Kaye trademark. "So You Want to

Through the agreement became binding upon the west German republic upon being signed by Adenauer, and without parliamentary approval, the Socialists had demanded the legislative test.

Is Not Stepping Stone Bonn, Germany, Nov. 25 (AP)—The allies made it clear today that the agreement, they signed with the west German federal government is not to be regarded as a stepping stone for further demands.

In a news conference, the allied high commissioners said negotiations with Federal Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were complete. The agreement, restoring occupation controls, signed yesterday, would stand until the occupation statute is reviewed in the autumn of next year, they said.

The news conference was conducted by Sir Brian Robertson, United Kingdom high commissioner, M. Andre Francois-Poncet, French high commissioner, and Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy American high commissioner. American High Commissioner John J. McCloy was in London.

Education Plans

training elementary teachers for the public schools of New York, the job ahead in the next few years is tremendous. The best available statistics indicate that in 1955—only 6 years from now—there will be 40 per cent more elementary school children in up state New York than there were in 1947. In 1953 there will be 50 per cent more high school youth in the high schools of New York state than there were in 1947.

These increases are a direct result of the increase in the birthrate in recent years. The birthrate of New York state reached a low point of 14.1 per cent in 1935 or 184,421 births. This rate increased to a birthrate of 18.2 with 250,163 births in 1943 and then decreased in the following two years.

However, in 1946 the birthrate jumped up again to 20.4 per cent per thousand and in 1947 jumped to 22.5 for a total of 323,337. This year saw the highest birthrate in New York state since before 1920 and the largest number of births in New York state in history.

These figures indicating the number of children born each year constitute the largest single factor in determining public school enrollments and therefore the need for teachers. It is estimated that by 1955—only 6 years away—7,772 more teachers will be needed in the elementary schools alone in up state New York than there are in this year 1949-50. This means that every program for the training of elementary teachers in New York state will be expanded to its utmost in order to even begin to meet the demand.

Among the recent developments at the New Paltz College is the construction of a dormitory which will provide special facilities for the entire student body and living accommodations for 250 additional students. With these facilities the enrollment of the college will likely go to more than 1000 in the fall of 1950 providing the dormitory is completed and available for use by that time.

One of the recent activities at the college has been the preparation of two of a series of movies taken in the demonstration school with groups of children, student teachers, and faculty members. These movies are being made for the McGraw Hill Book Company and are designed to illustrate and make more effective use of one of their text books in the field of psychology. The Campus School at New Paltz was selected from a large number of possible locations for the production of the movies.

Another recent development is the organization of a Mid-Hudson School Study Council with the staff of the Education Department at the college providing the central office and the executive secretary for the council. This council, similar to approximately 15-18 other school study councils across the country, is in reality a council of school systems in which school administrators, teachers, supervisors, members of Boards of Education, and members of the lay public take part in studying and finding practical solutions to their common problems. A recent meeting held at the State Teachers College representatives of each of these groups from school systems in Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Putnam and Rockland counties met and appointed a Constitution Committee. The next meeting of the council is scheduled to take place at Newburgh, which time the formal organization of the council will be accomplished.

A fire of unknown origin destroyed a shed in the north yard of the West Short railroad early Thursday morning.

Firemen were called at 3:40 a. m. Engine 1 of Central station and Ulster Hose Company responded and quenched the fire with a hydrant and booster line.

The structure, which had been used as a "bunk house" was near the roundhouse off Albany avenue extension.

Two Youths Held For Tractor Theft

Last August a tractor and mower owned by the County of Ulster was stolen from along the highway where it had been parked at the close of the day operation. Since then an investigation has been under way by state police.

Early this week Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly arrested Mark Newgardon, 16, of Mt. Marion and Charles Rothe, Jr., 16, of Shultis Corners, on charges of grand larceny, first degree, in connection with the theft. Taken before Justice of the Peace Percy Bush of the town of Ulster both young men waived examination and were held for grand jury action.

The tractor was recovered a couple of months ago at Goat Hill, town of Saugerties, where it had been dismantled and wrecked. It was valued at $1,500.

During the investigation Sergeant Reilly said Newgardon had also admitted that he had been involved in a theft at the sawmill of DeWitt Shultis of Berrysville, located at High Woods. On October 23, a power chain saw valued at $350, tools, batteries, a grinding set and other equipment at the mill was reported missing. The missing articles were valued by the owner at about $500. The missing articles were recovered, Sergeant Reilly stated, and Newgardon will be charged with the theft.

ROSENDALE NEWS

Cancer Group Plan Special Education

Rosendale, Nov. 23—The Cancer Education Committee for the town of Rosendale met at the home of Mrs. Andrew J. Snyder, chairman Saturday afternoon. Present were Mrs. Harry Wesp, Mrs. Rudolph Buysendorfer, Miss Florence Buckley, Mrs. C. E. Fox, Mrs. Stephen Hiltner, Mrs. Mary Myers and Mrs. George M. Schaefer.

A special program of cancer education for the town was outlined to be held Tuesday night, Dec. 6 at the Rosendale Theatre through the courtesy of the management. The program will include movies and an outstanding speaker in the medical profession, which will be furnished through the Kingston Cancer Clinic. These will be followed by a question and answer period.

Posters announcing the town-wide program will be put in strategic places throughout the town, and members of the committee will publish the program through the various organizations with which they are affiliated and the localities in which they live.

As emphasized at the training school for volunteer workers, the greatest detriment to proper treatment and possible cure of cancer is the fear evoked by this disease. It is the purpose of the Cancer Education Committee, in making this cancer education program to present to the community the latest information available in diagnosis and treatment of cancer and thus dispel the fear a least to the extent of having the individual realize that a cure may be effected with early treatment. A great many persons who have died from cancer might have been curable if fear of the disease and an accompanying sense of futility had not prevented them from seeking proper treatment during the early stages.

Shortly after the Christmas holidays one of the women's organized work of preparing surgical dressings, with a trained instructor from the Kingston Cancer Clinic to teach the proper methods. Gauze fillings will be supplied by the clinic, but a large quantity of soft, clean, white linen or muslin cloths or old sheeting will be required for the outer coverings of the dressings. A general appeal is being made immediately for this material to be left at Mrs. Anna Auchmoody's store in Rosendale, at Joe Yunker's in Bloomington, and with Mrs. Robert Hicks in Cottkill.

THOUGHTS WORTH THINKING

News is news but oftentimes for better understanding it needs interpretation.

That is the function of our editorial page. On this page our editors seek to interpret without bias the known facts in many situations which are puzzling to the average reader.

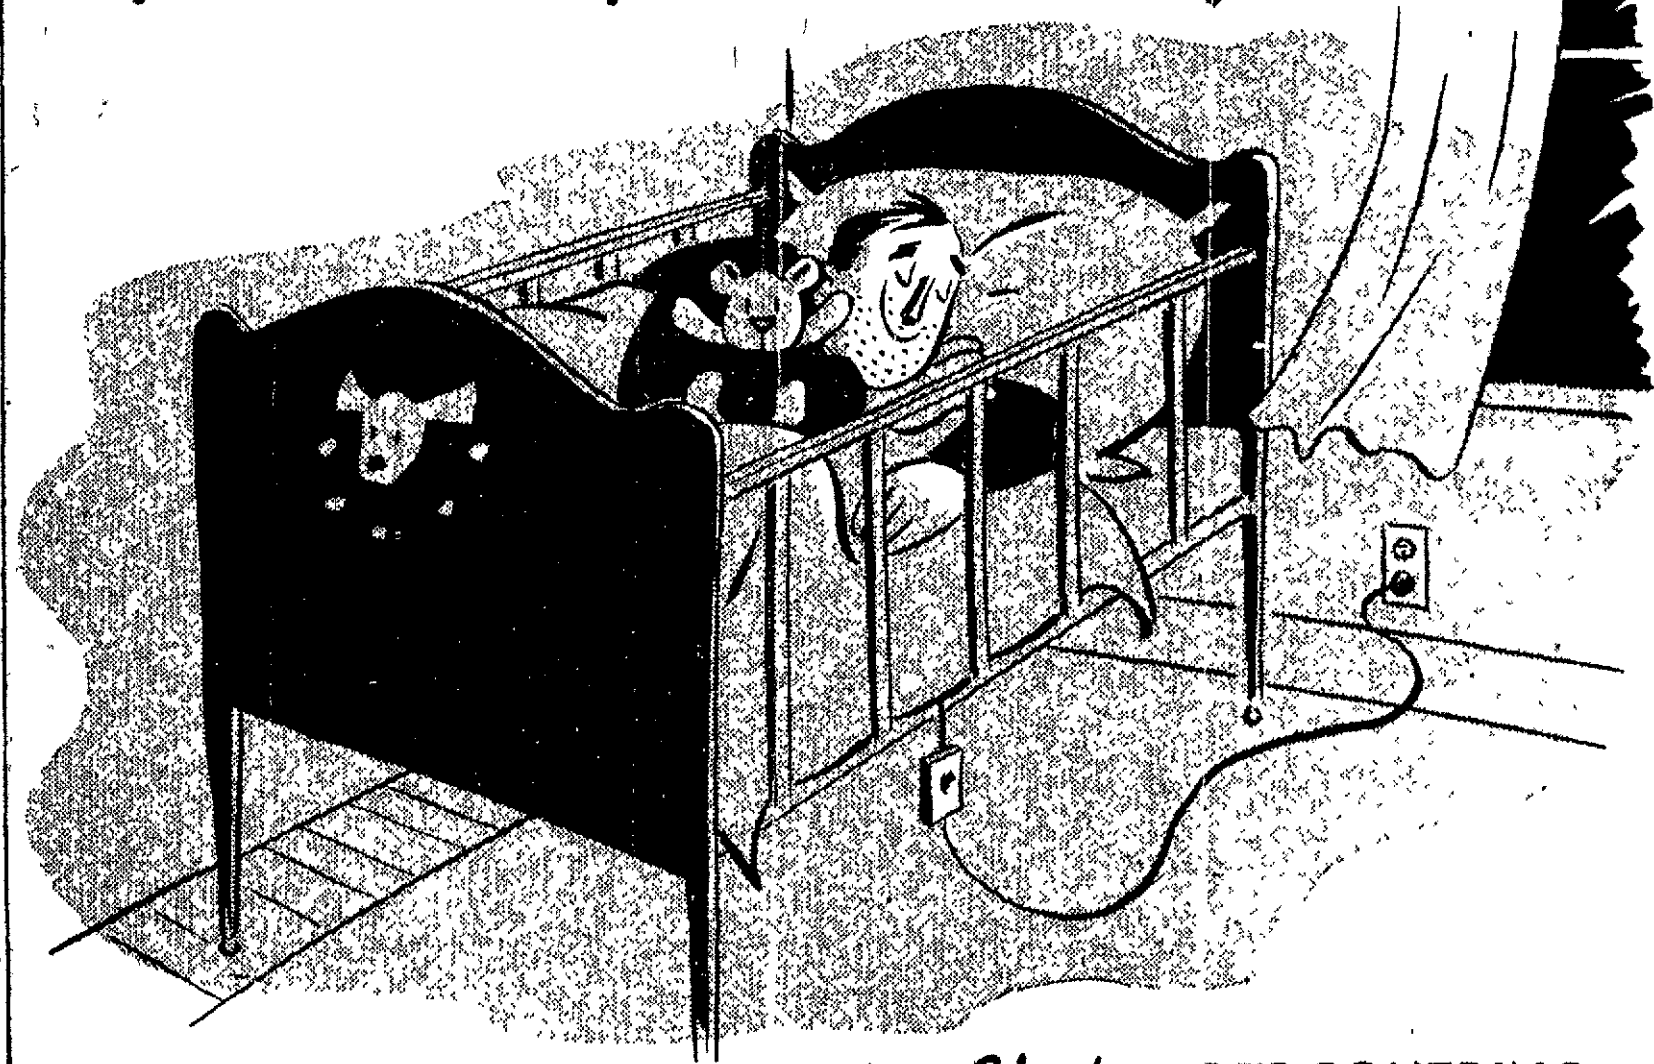

Editorials at their best generate thoughts worth thinking. The sallow and the casual have no place in an editorial. Here the distillation of a series of events takes place and the result is usually a thoughtful interpretation that makes even the biased pause and ponder.

Subjects may be worldwide in application, national, regional, state or strictly local but the thoughts expressed are usually the studied conclusions of a lifetime of observation and worthwhile thinking.

CENTRAL HUDSON GAS & ELECTRIC CORPORATION

Benjamin Feldman Is Freed by Jury

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The strange "Feldman Case" apparently was a closed book today, and for Benjamin Feldman, 41, it had a happy ending.

After twice being doomed to die for murder, the flustered little druggist was free of charges that he fatally poisoned his young wife, Harriet, with strychnine.

Unlike the Brooklyn jurists at two previous trials, a third Kings county jury found Feldman innocent Wednesday.

Weeping and pouring out thank-yous, he went down on his knees kissing the shoes of his defense attorney, Hyman Burshtay.

Embarrassed, the lawyer helped Feldman get up. Then the druggist threw his arms around Burshtay, and kissed him on the cheek.

Feldman, who had spent 25 months in Sing Sing Prison's death house and watched 23 murderers walk to the electric chair while he waited his own turn, said he plans a rest with relatives in the country.

He said he wants to get back in the pharmacy business.

Feldman's wife, whom he met through a marriage broker, died in 1943, screaming of pain in her feet. Two years before, her mother had died also crying "don't touch my feet."

Relative of the women, on learning that foot pains are symptomatic of strychnine poisoning, persuaded authorities to examine the bodies of the dead women. Both contained strychnine.

Feldman at first was charged with both deaths, but later one charge was dropped and he was accused only of poisoning his wife. The state charged he did it to obtain $25,000 insurance left her by her mother.

Twice, in 1946 and again in 1948, Feldman was convicted and ordered executed, but each time the State Court of Appeals reversed the findings for technical reasons.

After the third trial, the jury, which got the case late Tuesday, deliberated all night without reaching a verdict. Judge Carmine J. Marasco insisted that the jury keep working until it could agree on a decision. Finally, the jury brought in the acquittal after 20 hours' deliberation.

Judge Marasco told the jury: "It is not my custom to comment on a verdict, but you know within your own conscience whether you did the right thing."

Another film is "Pop Rings the Bell," a movie of interest to all adults who pay school taxes and who are interested in the improvement of their school. It is a dramatic, convincing story of progress in education and is designed to show that the public benefits from education in direct proportion to the educational level of those they serve. The film points out that good education is an investment and not an assessment. Refreshments will be available.

BEWARE THE WHITE LINE—You can hypnotize yourself into an accident by watching the white center line too closely, says Carol Lane of New York, travel expert for the Shell Oil Co. "A drowsy or over-tired driver who stares steadily at the line and fails to keep a sharp eye on oncoming cars and side traffic is almost certain to meet disaster sooner or later," she warns. Use the white line as a safety guide, not as a possible hypnotic trap.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion
By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

One of the most provoking pieces of advice ever written, to warn us against the encroaching ideology of statism has been attributed to President Lincoln. While it has been reprinted occasionally, the Ruminator does not know where in Lincoln's writings or speeches it appeared. Friends have asked me to inquire if any of my readers can trace its origin. In any event, the advice might well be taken to heart by all of us who fear the slide of the road down which we now seem to be traveling at a rather fast gait:

You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift.
You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong.
You cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage-payer.
You cannot further the brotherhood of man by encouraging class hatred.
You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich.
You cannot establish sound security on borrowed money.
You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than you earn.
You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.
You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they should and could do for themselves.

It is an extraordinary piece of writing. The evidence actually seems to drive the message into our brains, don't you think? You can feel the flow of words and happily advice. If you know the origin, I shall appreciate it if you will drop me a line. I should like to print it appropriately for distribution this Christmas. It would carry more weight, of course, if its exact sources were noted.

There seems to be no way to get over to the majority of people who are favoring the "Futuram" State, that they are only looking for their own eventual downfall. Warnings of this kind do not make a dent in the armor of a welfare statist. He thinks we have an axe to grind. He thinks the so-called "conservative" is against welfare ideas solely because it will cost him money. Not being a student or reader of history the welfare state adherent really believes that every "reactionary" is selfish and greedy. Many are, of course, as most of us are selfish and greedy.

N.Y.U. Mural Is Taken From Wall

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—A mural sketch—subject of a bitter campus controversy—has been removed from the wall of a lounge at New York University.

The row over the mural started last week after one student faction denounced it as a "vicious piece of Communist propaganda." Others vigorously defended it.

To try to ease the tension, university authorities quickly took the mural down yesterday—while most students were away for the four-day Thanksgiving holiday.

But officials said they weren't taking sides in the dispute. Student critics of the mural sketch claim it depicts Russians living happily in a paradise, with Americans shown in a depressing "hell hole."

The sketch for the mural, to be entitled "One World," was executed by a graduate student artist, Harold Collins. It was chosen in a contest, judged by a committee of students and faculty members.

In the foreground of the mural, the Russian and American groups are reaching across a United Nations conference table to grasp hands.

The background on the right, or American side, shows an assembly line of workers. There is a figure preparing to throw an atomic bomb, several figures trying to tear down a fence of discrimination, and two generals and a speaker apparently propagandizing for war. A worried-looking student sits on a fence.

On the left, or Russian side, two children are planting flowers. There is a montage of corpses apparently representing the destruction of revolution and war. Above this is a partisan hanging from a gibbet.

The mural first was attacked Nov. 16 in the school of education newspaper by Stefan Bauer-Mengelberg, 22-year-old graduate student. This is illustrated of his charges resulted in a student meeting Monday night at which Collins defended his design. He said he had "nothing to hide" and was painting things as he saw them. The meeting voted to submit the issue to a student referendum.

The charcoal sketch of the mural, which Collins was to execute later in paint, is on brown paper tacked on a wooden frame, 10 by 28 feet in size.

In removing it from the wall of LaGuardia Hall, university officials said through a spokesman they were not "passing judgment on its artistic or philosophic merits."

They said the action was the result of "the sharp student controversy," and that the mural was carefully handled and stored.

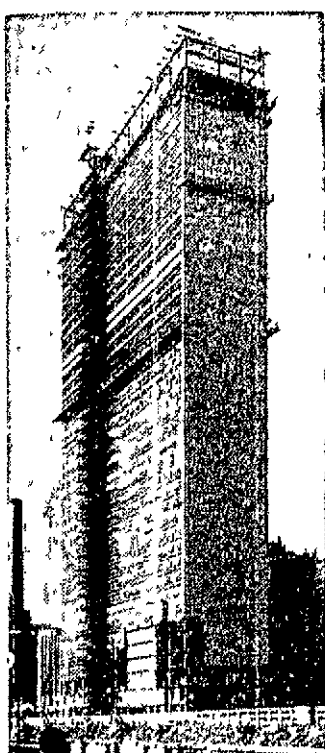

Preparing Scallops

Scallops are delicious when coated with seasoned flour and fried in shallow fat in a large from skillet. To coat a pound of scallops put four tablespoons of flour, a teaspoon of salt, a little fresh-ground pepper, and a dash of paprika into a mixing bowl and stir together well; put the scallops into the seasoned flour a few at a time and coat well on all sides.

Lincoln was giving advice to lawyers. Herndon quotes him as saying: "Don't shoot too high. Aim lower; and the common people will understand you. They are the ones you want to reach—at least they are the ones you ought to reach. The educated and refined people will understand you anyway. If you aim too high, your ideas will go over the heads of the masses and only hit those who need no hitting." (Taken from "Lincoln's Own Stories," by Anthony Gross.)

Let me know if you can trace the source of the line "You cannot" sentences. They are indeed contrary-in-thought to the remark Lincoln made about another lawyer: "He can compress the most words into the smallest ideas of any man I ever met."

Local Firm Gets Incinerator Job To Erect Chimney

The Board of Public Works awarded the contract for alterations on the local incinerator chimney to the Colonial Construction Co., of this city at a regular meeting Wednesday.

Work on the chimney is preliminary to enlargement of the incinerator plant. The local concern bid $2,100 and the only other bid received was from the American Chimney Corp. of New York, and was $2,140.

The board granted permission to G. A. Tahan Co., Inc., Cohoes, to decorate street light standards and string overhead streamers for Christmas decorations in the uptown and downtown areas.

An arrangement under which the city will pay the cost of electricity on a sign light at Academy Green, which directs tourists to the Senate House, was approved by the board.

The State Education Department has installed and will maintain the sign.

The lighting committee approved installation of a light on Tammany street, denied a request to alter a light at Abel and Ravine streets, and recommended the removal of brush to provide better light on Sharon Lane.

A request for a light on 45 Wilson avenue and one on Granite Court, from the Common Council, were referred to the lighting committee.

FLAVOR YOUR EGGS WITH HAM

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Eggs are plentiful now and prices have gone down. So let's enjoy stuffed eggs at our forthcoming holiday parties because they are about the most popular of all the millions of snacks to serve with beverages.

That's James Beatty's suggestion. He's one of the best known experts on the fine eating in America and the author of the new and beautifully illustrated "The Fireside Cook Book." Co-operating with this column, he recommends the following from his book:

Pungent Eggs

Six hard-cooked eggs, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Mash egg yolks well with a fork. Add mayonnaise, salt, onion and mustard, and blend thoroughly to a smooth paste. Fill egg halves and decorate with parsley. Chill well.

Mushroom Eggs

Six hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup ground raw mushrooms, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, mayonnaise, pimiento. Blend the yolks of eggs with chicken and mushrooms. Add parsley, salt and enough mayonnaise to make a smooth paste. Fill egg halves and decorate with thin strips of pimiento.

Anchovy Eggs

Six hard-cooked eggs, 2 tablespoons chopped anchovies, 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Blend yolks of eggs with anchovy paste and lemon juice. You will probably not require salt.

Ham-Flavored Eggs

Six hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup ground cold ham, mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt. Mash yolks of eggs and blend in ham and mustard. Add enough mayonnaise to make a smooth paste. Taste for seasoning before adding salt.

Neat Eggs

Six hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup ground cold ham, mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon salt. Mash yolks of eggs and blend in ham and mustard. Add enough mayonnaise to make a smooth paste. Taste for seasoning before adding salt.

Playing Good Bridge Requires Alertness

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for N.E.A. Service

One of the busiest men in Washington is Watson B. Miller, Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, who has been serving the American public for a good many years. He was formerly Federal Security Administrator, and for 20 years headed the Rehabilitation Committee of the American Legion. At the dinner table the other night, the commissioner said: "There are thousands of people fighting to get into the United States every day—but you never find anybody who wants to get out of the country."

Guarding our coastline, he said, requires alertness. His men are trained to watch for the unusual. Such theories always recall a bridge hand to my mind like the one I am giving you today.

It is obvious that declarer has to lose three diamonds twice and a club trick. Of course, we might smoke out the enemy and get them to lead diamonds—in other words, to disclose their situation. So when the first trick is won in dummy with the king of hearts, declarer pulls two rounds of trumps and cashes two more rounds of hearts, discarding the seven of clubs from dummy on the third heart.

Now the ace of clubs is cashed and the queen of clubs led. When East wins it, he is helpless. If he leads another club, declarer can discard a losing diamond and thus hold his diamond losses to two; or if East returns a diamond, declarer loses only two diamond tricks.

Should Be Bumpy
Don't worry if your muffin batter has lumps in it when you follow the standard muffin recipe; it's supposed to be bumpy. A smooth muffin batter means you have mixed too much and the hot bread will have tunnels after it is baked.

Will Discuss Law
Albany, N. Y., Nov. 25.—A proposed uniform county budget law will be discussed here Monday by representatives of most New York counties. The proposal was drafted by the State Department of Audit and Control at the request of the temporary State Commission on Uniform County Laws. The measure would make county fiscal years coincide with the calendar year and set uniform minimum requirements for county budgets.

Easy Stitch For Toyland

Christmas time is toy-time and stuffed dolls and animals like these girls are making easy to cut to a pattern and sew up from remnants of felt, fabric and yarn. Other dolls are crocheted or wear knitted costumes of dresses and caps or Santa suits that charm children. Close-up of unusual designs for Christmas give patterns numbers of toys.

By ERSIE KINARD NEA Staff Writer

When making your own Christmas toys for a long list of little hopefuls this year you can spare yourself tedious stitches by using felt. Easy-to-sew felt, which makes cuddly animals and charming dresses for dolls, can be picked up from the remnant counters, or can even be salvaged from old hats. New dude ranch dolls—handsome Harry and Loretta Lou, for example—are made entirely of multi-color felt scraps. These make Harry's and Loretta's legs as well as their pistols and belts. Even the features of this swashbuckling pair are made of bits of felt sewed onto faces.

Felt also makes the chic costume of a pretty girl doll, 12 1/2 inches tall, whose three-tiered skirt, bolero, bonnet, shoes and large shoulder-strap bag, plus the flowers that decorate her dress, are freed of the nuisances of hemming and finishing. Thanks also to easier-to-sew felt, a handsome new giraffe to delight a youngster can be whipped up in a jiffy. So can a felt-stuffed Toyland of other engaging playthings: Mary's Little Lamb, a hop-eared pup named Bozo, a Humpty Dumpty bear, a chubby cub, and other charmers. What makes all of these more of a cinch to whip up are hot-iron transfer patterns with complete sewing and finishing directions. Directions for knitting, plus patterns for tracing, simplify the making of a new "Dutchy" doll picturesquely dressed in a colorful Dutch costume. To make this appealing 15-inch doll attired in a kilt, cap-and-dress costume of brilliant multicolor yarns, every stitch is charted for the amateur toy-maker.

NOTE: To obtain patterns for any of the toys shown, send 20 cents in coins, your name, address and the pattern number for each pattern desired to ANNE CABOT, The Kingston Daily Freeman, 1150 Avenue of the Americas, New York 19, New York.

Anne Cabot's big new ALBUM is overflowing with dozens of fascinating new designs, Christmas gifts, decorations and special features. PLUS four gift patterns and directions. Twenty-five cents a copy.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

CHILD'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

As one of my secretaries commented after reading this letter: "How critical can some people get?" "At my child's birthday party, the favors at each little guest's place included a card on which was written the child's name. The children all thought it was so much fun to hunt their places. It was all very gay and very informal. This last accounts for the criticism of a neighbor whose child was present, who thought that place cards at such an informal party were ridiculous. Her opinion is that only at formal parties are they correct. I think it would clarify the neighborhood atmosphere to have your opinion."

There was nothing incorrect about the place cards—nor even unusual. It is entirely proper to put place cards on, whenever they are found convenient, and at a child's party when the card is attached to a little favor of some sort, finding their names is an amusing game as well as useful.

The Bridegroom's Children Dear Mrs. Post: I'm marrying a man next week who has two very young children. On our marriage announcements there can be no mention of this however, and a majority of my family and friends live in distant places and know none of the circumstances. How can they be told without my having to write personal notes? That would be impossible.

Answer: There would still be time to send a group picture including the children as a Christmas card, so that your family and best friends can have the added interest of seeing your husband and stepchildren.

You Couldn't Be More Wrong Dear Mrs. Post: My husband lately resigned his job, and his office associates gave a party for him one evening at a night club. There were both men and women in the group. I feel that I should have been included, and that not having been, he should have not gone either. Am I right?

Answer: Since the party was for him, he certainly had to go to it, and if the women present were all members of the office staff, you certainly have no cause for criticism. (Of course if the non-working wives of other men were included, your feelings would be justifiable. But it is unlikely that any such rudeness was committed.)

Is it improper to wear veils in the evening? Is it proper to speak to strangers at parties? A list of everyday questions and answers are given in Mrs. Post's latest, E-18, "An Etiquette Test." To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 98, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Kingston High Wins 13-12 Thriller From N.F.A. to Share DUSO Crown

5,000 See Thrilling Grid Classic; Keyes and B. Scheffel in Key Plays

Nearly 5,000 spectators who jam-packed municipal stadium for the traditional Thanksgiving Day football classic between Kingston High and Newburgh Free Academy will remember Coach Bill Burke's 1949 aggregation as a team that didn't fail in its greatest mission.

With flying cleats, indomitable courage and a savage defense, the brilliant young men of K.H.S. wrote a football saga of revenge and glory as they humbled highly favored Newburgh Free Academy, 13 to 12, to force the bitter gall of sharing the DUSO championship on the creaky Academics who had humbled them 14-0 in a previous encounter.

For Coach Bill Burke it was his third DUSO League championship (one shared with Newburgh) since he came on the Kingston scene in the 1946 season. It was Kingston's sixth victory with one loss and a tie against N.F.A. since that time. The teams wound up the 1949 season with identical records of five wins and one loss.

Score Misleading
The Joker in the titanic school-boy clash that unfolded in a resplendent holiday setting was the final score. Never was a one-point margin so misleading. The hard charging line hit the Academics between the eyes the first time Kingston grabbed the ball and pushed them around vigorously throughout most of the game. They outstruck them 232 yards to 108 and with a few breaks here and there would have compiled a three or four touchdown margin. Three they were talked inside the Newburgh 10.

The heroic plays will stand out in this soul stirring football drama. One was a sensational catch that Bill Scheffel made for Kingston's 13th point and the other was a bone-jarring tackle by Bill Burke. However, Keyes that smothered Dick Tyler's attempt to cross the Kingston goal line with the extra point that would have tied the score 13-13 and given Kingston only a bone to chew on, instead of one of the greatest victories in its football history.

A Heavily Great One
Whether this was the most thrilling high school football game ever played is something for the historians to decide. But, from a Kingston standpoint, there never has anything quite like it, no victory ever so sweet, so soul-satisfying as this 1949 accomplishment against the Goldbacks.

Kingston marched 53 yards for its first TD in the second period and 67 yards in the fourth quarter. Emmanuel Vigliotti, a speed demon, raced 98 yards untouched with a pass interception to tie the score 6-6 in the third period and N.F.A. roared back 63 yards for its fourth period for their second TD. The huge crowd was excited as the Academics denied lined up for the extra point that could have given them a tie and shattered Kingston's hopes of sharing the crown.

Keyes' Great Tackle
Orville Ors, the place kicker specialist, whose first try was low and wide of the uprights, dropped back in place kick formation. Instead of kicking, he faded back to pass, slanted Dick Tyler two yards from the end zone and fired. The ball, Tyler and Harvey Keyes arrived on the spot at the same time. Keyes delivered a jarring tackle that halted Tyler cold a yard inside the field and that was the big play of the day.

Keyes Rumps
With Keyes smashing N.F.A. tackles like a man possessed, Kingston ground out 53 yards to the Newburgh 2 when a penalty set them back five yards and

TURKEY TRIMMINGS

If the man who sat next to you called yesterday's K.H.S.-N.F.A. thriller the greatest game ever played in Kingston, don't argue with him. It could easily have been that. Harvey Keyes was never greater. Walt Hansen was a demon on fumbles. Harold Acker and Jack Kozlowski made brilliant tackles. The play was spirited, rugged, dirty at times. Tempers flared. Newburgh's Emmanuel Vigliotti and Kingston's Jack Kozlowski almost exchanged blows at one point. Newburgh seemed to be piling on Ronnie Scheffel, at midfield and brother Bud, rushed in ready to defend the many honor. On the whole, the officials did a great job, held control in the game all the way. Newburgh's John Bowman, veteran center who is not as playful as a kitten at times, was rendered hors combat in the fourth quarter. Ronnie Scheffel was momentarily keyoned in the same period. John Weber, regular fullback, languished on the bench, in what would have been his final game. Kozlowski did a great job as his replacement, was a staunch defender. Kingston moved the first time they had possession and you could see they were "up" for this one. The K.H.S. band and cheerleaders performed brilliantly. The 1949 K.H.S. band seems like a dream compared to the pitiful remnants of a few years ago. The school and the community can rightly feel proud of Marie Morette's musicians. Captain Barbara Snyder and her nine musettes of the baton twirling corps closed out their high school career with a beautiful halftime ceremony. Ray Howe, popular baton soloist, led the huge crowd in singing "America The Beautiful". It was a touching ceremony staged with dignity and reverence worthy of the day. It made you feel kind of happy that you live in America and are still young enough to get choked up at a high school football game. There were individual heroes in this was essentially a team victory for K.H.S. and the young men who took part in this glorious achievement. Have indelibly written their names among the all-time immortals of K.H.S.

Vigliotti Goes 98
Vigliotti's sensational interception and 98 yard scamper for a touchdown broke the back of the Newburgh 2 when a fourth down pass that developed from a triple reverse found his waiting arms. The pass was intended for Keyes but he never reached it. Vigliotti grabbed it a stride inside the field, picked up a cordon of blockers and galloped down the field to the Kingston 10. The stadium of Kingston without a hand touching him. Ors' failure to convert left the score tied 6-6 at the end of the third period.

Kingston moved 67 yards for the winning TD, and were assisted by a crucial holding penalty against the Academics from the 8. The ball was moved to the one yard line on the penalty and Ronnie Scheffel barged over the strong side unmolested. The try for extra point produced one of the great thrills of the day for Kingston.

A Dilly by Scheffel
Kozlowski was back apparently in drop kick formation. Instead he shipped a pass into the corner of the end zone. Bud Scheffel was running to his right when he made a headlong dive to the turf. The ball and Scheffel got there at the same time, but the important factor was that Scheffel's arm was on the ground when the pilsn landed on it. It was a completed pass and the play that produced the winning point. On such heroics are won great football victories.

Fired up for the first time, N.F.A. roared back 63 yards from the kickoff and didn't stop until Tyler scored on a quarterback sneer from two feet out. Tyler completed four successful passes, a pair to Jackson, and others to Petrillo and Ors to move from the Newburgh 37 to Kingston's 25. A 5 yard penalty against Kingston gave N.F.A. first down on the 19. Petrillo went to the 11, Tyler to the 8, Ors to the two foot line and Tyler rumbled over. The extra point, as chronicled above, never happened. Mr. Harvey Keyes saw to that.

Shaughnessy, Acker and Keyes starred in Kingston's 67-yard march for the second score. An offense and holding penalty helped Kingston en route. Vigliotti intercepted a pass on the Newburgh 8 (almost the identical play on which he rambled 98 yards) and was hauled down the mureury feet of Harold Acker down on the Kingston 35, but the play was nullified when Newburgh was detected holding on the play.

Williams Named MVP In American League

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox may have failed to win the American League pennant but they possess the circuit's most valuable player in Ted Williams.

The brilliant batting star, whose team lost the flag to the New York Yankees on the final day of the season, gained some measure of revenge when he defeated the World Champions' Phil Rizzuto and Joe Page for the coveted prize.

Williams' selection by a committee of 24 members of the Baseball Writers' Association, three from each city, was doubly significant since it marked the first time in six years that such an honor was bestowed upon a member of a non-pennant winning club.

He received 13 firsts, three seconds, seven thirds and one fourth to total 272 points, 98 more than Rizzuto. The Yankees' dazzling shortstop, obtained five firsts among his 175 points to beat out his teammate, Joe Page, for runner-up honors. The peerless relief pitcher had 164 points.

On a point basis—with 14 for first, nine for second and so on to one for tenth—Mel Parnell, Red Sox southpaw pitcher finished fourth with 151 points. Ellis Kinder, his right-handed pitching mate, was fifth with 122, one more than New York's Tommy Henrich. Junior Stephens, Boston's hard-hitting shortstop, ranked seventh with an even 100 points.

Rounding out the top ten were Detroit's George Kell, Cleveland's Bob Lemon and Vic Wertz, Tiger outfielder.

"Bo" Bothered

When last seen beating a hasty retreat from municipal stadium, Wesley F. "Bo" Gill, the prominent Newburgh News DUSO football expert, was reported ranting and raving about "lousy officiating," "lucky Kingston," and other terms of endearment normally associated with a back-breaking defeat like that 13-12 loss inflicted by K.H.S. on N.F.A. yesterday.

"Bo" also is expected to come out with a protest that Kingston "picked up" four yards on the exchange of yardsticks between the third and fourth quarters. He is also supposed to have suggested that Referee Loren Campbell should have retired three years ago. The latter report, of course, is strictly a rumor.

New R.P.I. Captains
Troy, N. Y., Nov. 25 (AP)—Tackle Harry Newgold, Jr., of Malverne, Cal., one of the best prospects and guard John N. Park of Rockville Centre will co-captain the football team of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute next year. Their election was announced yesterday. Both are Juniors.

Police Charge Two Men With Drunken Driving

Two men were arrested by local police within 24 hours on charges of driving while intoxicated.

William Dugan, 40, of 3 1/2 Main street, was arrested by Officers Joseph Fallon and George Bowers after his car had allegedly struck one parked near 82 Cedar street early Thursday morning.

Police were notified at 4:57 a. m., and said the Dugan car had struck one owned by John Hughes, 82 Cedar street, which was pushed into one owned by Thelma May Elliott, 80 Cedar street.

Dugan, represented by Attorney Charles Gaffney, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned before City Judge Raymond J. Mine yesterday and hearing was adjourned until December 1. He was released under $100 bail.

Robert Tierney, 41, of 207 Downs street was arrested by Officers Charles Hoehing and Clarence Sticks at 3:20 a. m. today on Broadway near Liberty street. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned today. Hearing was set for December 5 and he was released under $250 bail.

Americans More Free With Dollars

Washington, Nov. 25. (AP)—The average American is taking in almost twice the money he did in 1939 and he's spending it a little more freely than he did even three months ago.

The Federal Reserve Board reported last night that consumer income is 90 per cent higher than in 1939, just three per cent under the peak reached last year.

And the board noted that people as a whole are spending an increasing proportion of their income—$30.10 per $100 of income—in the third quarter of this year, as compared with $21.60 in the first quarter and $22.30 in the third quarter of last year.

The continued high level of consumer income—and willingness to spend it—helped markedly in pushing the economic downturn earlier this year, the board said.

The agency's November bulletin showed consumer income flowing at the rate of $210,600,000,000 a year in the third quarter (July through September). That's roughly $1,400 for every man, woman and child in the country and reflects a 19 per cent increase for the postwar period alone.

Wage and salary income, which accounts for $134,400,000,000 of total, was up 88 per cent from 1939 (the number of workers also had increased) and 23 per cent from 1946. It was off only two per cent the peak reached in the fourth quarter of 1948.
